

KOREA ARMISTICE BELIEVED NEAR

Ike, In Appeal To ROK, Offers Defense Pact

President Pledges Unremitting Effort To Unify Country

SEOUL, Monday, June 8 (AP)—An official South Korean source said today President Eisenhower's dramatic, 11th-hour letter to President Syngman Rhee had not altered the Korean government's opposition to an Allied proposal for an armistice.

SEOUL, Monday, June 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday offered the Republic of Korea a mutual defense pact and pledged unremitting efforts to unify this divided country "by all peaceful means" after conclusion of an armistice.

President Syngman Rhee made no immediate comment but his government leaders expressed dissatisfaction and anger that the U. S. had failed to meet all South Korean objections to current proposals for a truce.

Immediately after the letter was received it was read to Cabinet members at a special Sunday session with a truce "crisis" committee of 12 national assemblymen.

ROK Reaction Varied

Some government leaders said a defense pact with the United States must be signed before and not after a truce. Some angrily urged that South Korea "fight on alone."

National assemblymen said they planned to call for mobilization of all civilians. Their reaction to the Eisenhower note ranged from sadness to anger.

The letter from Eisenhower to Rhee—an appeal for understanding and co-operation and a promise of military and economic aid—was delivered to the Korean chief executive by Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. commander in chief in the Far East.

Eisenhower promised Rhee a defense pact, subject to the consent of the U. S. Senate.

"I am prepared promptly after the conclusion and acceptance of an armistice to negotiate with you a mutual defense treaty along the lines of the treaties heretofore made between the U. S. and the Republic of the Philippines, and the United States and Australia and New Zealand," he wrote.

Unification Effort Pledged

"You may recall that both of these treaties speak of the development of a more comprehensive system of regional security in the Pacific area."

"A security pact between the United States and the Republic of Korea would be a further step in the direction. It would cover the territory now or hereafter brought peacefully under the administration of the Republic of Korea."

Eisenhower also pledged that the U. S. "will not renounce its efforts by all peaceful means to effect the unification of Korea" and as a member of the United Nations "we shall seek to assure that the U. N. continues steadfast in its determination in this respect."

Ground Action Slows Down

Far to the south, action on the rain-soaked ground front slowed down during the day after South Korean infantrymen grimly slugged through heavy mud and wiped out part of an enemy wedge driven into Allied lines on Saturday.

Scene of the action was the embattled area around Luke's Castle in the eastern sector, where Communists had penetrated 500 yards into the Allied main line.

Hard-fighting ROK soldiers smashed the enemy back more than 300 yards in the first drive of their stubborn effort to retake the lost positions.

10 Killed By Neb. Twister

Survivors Of Tanker Crash

U.S. Jets Bomb Red Power Plant, Bag Three MiGs

SEOUL, June 8 (Monday) (INS)—

American Sabre-bombers smashed at a generating plant at the giant Suho Dam on the Yalu River Sunday and escorting Sabre jet fighters destroyed three MiGs among the swarms of enemy jets that rose from Manchuria to challenge them.

Still another MiG was probably destroyed and two others were damaged in the furious aerial battles that accompanied the Sabre-bombers' deepest strike into North Korea since the war's beginning.

Two of the day's kills were credited to Capt. Ralph S. Parr, Apple Valley, Calif., home town of Capt. Joseph M. McConnell, Jr., the world's first triple jet ace.

Eight Sabre Jets Bomb Plant

Eight Sabre jet bombers, each with two 500-pound bombs slung under its slim-swept wings, streaked through heavy antiaircraft ground fire to reach the generating plant at the foot of the Suho Dam, on the south bank of the Yalu.

The Air Force said it was the first attack on the dam since February 15, when 24 Thunderjet fighter-bombers blasted another generator at the reservoir.

The swept-wing American jets dived through a barrage of heavy flak and into puffs of black smoke to hit their targets. Sabre Pilot Lt. Richard Houseman, Colorado Springs, Colo., later commented:

"Flak, there was plenty of it!"

A-Tests, Storms Just Coincidence

WASHINGTON, June 7 (INS)—

Amateur weather experts who linked the recent Nevada atomic tests with some of the freak storms around the nation have assurances today from nuclear experts that it's pure coincidence.

Dr. John C. Burgher, one of the top men in the research section of the Atomic Energy Commission, told Congress in testimony made public today there has been no evidence that recent tornadoes resulted from the tests.

Then he added: "We have been unable to detect any effect on the weather from the detonations in Nevada."

Montana Flood Danger Mounts

HAVRE, Mont., June 7 (INS)—

Army radio-equipped trucks were dispatched from Fort Belknap, Mont., today to alert the entire populace along the flooded Milk River from Havre to Glasgow.

The Army engineers at the Fort said the water thundering over the spillway at nearby Fort Peck Dam has reached an all-time record, and that the situation along the 190-mile stretch of the river between flood-ravaged Havre and Glasgow was extremely critical.

One hundred and fifteen thousand cubic feet of water was reported crashing over the dam every second. The previous record was a 98,000 cubic foot per second spillage in 1943.

The boiling Milk River spilled over the last remaining dikes at Havre this morning. Red Cross emergency workers, reinforced by the arrival of five additional persons from San Francisco, said evacuation of 15,000 North Havre residents now was complete.

The entire north side of the city has been inundated by muddy flood waters, with many houses completely submerged.

Chain Reaction Feared

Refusal to continue the tax might start a chain reaction in Congress that could produce some very bad political results for the administration at the worst possible time—a year from now when the campaigns for control of Congress are getting under way.

If the excess profits tax ends, there is certain to be a fresh demand in Congress to speed up an earlier date the 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes now scheduled to take effect Jan. 1.

Cut In Veterans' Funds Proposed

TOKYO, June 7 (INS)—

Fifty persons were reported dead today and scores more injured following four days of torrential rains and floods which accompanied typhoon "Judy" to Japan.

The typhoon hit Southern Japan with winds up to 75 miles per hour but was reported by U. S. Air Force meteorologists to have "died" in the mountains of Honshu before reaching the Tokyo area.

Chairman Phillips (R) Calif., placed the report of an investigating staff in the subcommittee's hearings on Veterans' Administration appropriations.

The report pointed out that the budget request for compensation and pension programs for the fiscal year starting July 1 is $2,546,291,000, and recommended for immediate appropriation $2,246,291,000.

He admitted that the main purpose of devaluation was to boost production in the Cominform country's lagging industries. He stressed, however, that it also was intended to cripple "capitalists and landowners."

The Pragu regime last week devalued the crown to one-fifth of its former value. The move was seen by Western observers as an attempt to cut absenteeism and force workers to produce more.

All Victims Were Holding Informal Family Reunion

Farm Home, Other Buildings Leveled

ARCADIA, Neb., June 7 (AP)—A tornado today struck a farm near Arcadia where 10 persons were holding an informal family reunion, instantly killing all 10 and leveling the farm home and buildings.

"There wasn't a stick of anything left on the place," said Arthur Riedesel of nearby Loup City.

Even trees were clipped off so that only stumps stood a foot or two above the ground.

Also leveled was a farm just across the road where a two-story stone house was "blown to smithereens," Riedesel said. Six persons on the second place, one of them a passing motorist, escaped injury by hiding in a storm cave just six feet from the house.

Couldn't See Tornado Funnel

The 10 dead were on the Madsen farm five miles east of Arcadia. Children and grandchildren of the Madsens had just had their customary Sunday family dinner and probably were sitting in the house where they couldn't see the funnel of the tornado.

The dead were:

Mr. and Mrs. Madsen, both about 60.

Their son, Virgil, Central City, 6.

Their daughter, Mrs. Dolly Johnson, a teacher at Central City.

Mrs. Johnson's two children, son, 11, and a daughter, 10.

Another daughter of the Madsens, Mrs. Jack Witte, and her three children, Thelma, Patty and Gary.

In testimony released today, they said a boost of more than 25 per cent in the production of atomic materials and weapons is scheduled for next year.

This, they said, will build up stockpiles at "a much higher rate" than last year, when atomic developments were described as "revolutionary."

House Opposition Strong

Apparently only the strongest kind of personal intervention by the President—a field new to Eisenhower and one in which he is only beginning to feel his way—could reverse the trend.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the majority leader, said he is confident the Senate would go along on an extension of the tax if the House approved one. But opposition is so strong in the House that Chairman Daniel Reed (R-N.Y.) has indicated an extension bill probably will never get out of his ways and means committee.

If Congress refuses to continue the tax, the depths of the Eisenhower political defeat will not be measured by the mere $800 million dollars in potential revenue involved. This $800 million is only a drop in the deficit bucket that Eisenhower himself has said could be 11 billion dollars.

Chain Reaction Feared

Refusal to continue the tax might start a chain reaction in Congress that could produce some very bad political results for the administration at the worst possible time—a year from now when the campaigns for control of Congress are getting under way.

If the excess profits tax ends, there is certain to be a fresh demand in Congress to speed up an earlier date the 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes now scheduled to take effect Jan. 1.

Cut In Veterans' Funds Proposed

WASHINGTON, June 7 (INS)—A House appropriations subcommittee tonight made public a staff report recommending a 300 million dollar cut in funds for veterans' compensation and pension programs.

Chairman Phillips (R) Calif., placed the report of an investigating staff in the subcommittee's hearings on Veterans' Administration appropriations.

The report pointed out that the budget request for compensation and pension programs for the fiscal year starting July 1 is $2,546,291,000, and recommended for immediate appropriation $2,246,291,000.

He admitted that the main purpose of devaluation was to boost production in the Cominform country's lagging industries. He stressed, however, that it also was intended to cripple "capitalists and landowners."

The Pragu regime last week devalued the crown to one-fifth of its former value. The move was seen by Western observers as an attempt to cut absenteeism and force workers to produce more.

Clouds sprinkled the Central Plains with scattered showers. The Pacific Coast also was cloudy, with drizzle in Southern California and light rain in the extreme Northwest.

The most annoying thing about a stand-patter is not his stand, but his patter.

Area State Police To Use Radar Meter Against Speeding Drivers

State Police in Western Maryland will get one of three radar speed meters used to clock the speed of motor vehicles on area highways. These radar speed meters will open a new drive against speeding.

Major W. H. Weber, field force commander at MSP headquarters in Pikesville, said it is hoped to have the devices in enforcement teams in operation about July 1.

Cumberland, it was recalled, is one of the first cities in Maryland to employ the radar machine to catch speeding drivers. About a year ago Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason ruled that speedometer records were acceptable as evidence.

Training Scheduled

Major Weber explained that the nine troopers who will operate the devices in various parts of the state will be brought together at Pikesville in the next two or three weeks for special training.

He said Cpl. Samuel Conrad, stationed at Oakland, and two other men of LaVale Barracks "C" will probably be assigned to the job. The former has had previous experience with the speedmeter, Major Weber added.

One of the machines will be used more or less permanently on the Baltimore - Washington Boulevard. Another will work roads on the Eastern Shore and the third will be in operation west of Frederick through Hagerstown and Cumberland to Oakland.

According to Major Weber, highways will be marked where the device is set up.

Troopers in other sections of the state have been using one of the radar meters for several years, but only as a basis of serving warnings on speeders and for demonstrations to magistrates, judges and other law enforcement officials.

Device Authorized

The 1953 General Assembly authorized the use of the automatic meter's calculations in court if necessary, arming the police with power to use them in actual enforcement rather than for warnings only. The law became effective last Monday.

The Legislature made one reservation: all sections of highway where the radar teams are working must be marked with large signs to warn motorists.

Major Weber said those signs now are being painted.

The radar device bounces a radio beam off an approaching

car and by timing its return calculates the auto's speed automatically and instantaneously.

If the operator finds a car speeding, he radios its license number to a trooper patrol in a patrol vehicle a mile away. The trooper then intercepts the car and gives the driver warning or places him under arrest.

In Operation July 4

An enforcement team consists of the operator and two troopers, one stationed a mile away in each direction.

"We hope it will be some help to us on the Fourth of July weekend," Major Weber said.

It was indicated that the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles probably will invoke automatic 15-day driver's license suspensions on those caught speeding over the Fourth.

The technique has been used previously for holiday periods when traffic was expected to be particularly heavy.

Device Authorized

The 1953 General Assembly authorized the use of the automatic meter's calculations in court if necessary, arming the police with power to use them in actual enforcement rather than for warnings only. The law became effective last Monday.

The Legislature made one reservation: all sections of highway where the radar teams are working must be marked with large signs to warn motorists.

Major Weber said those signs now are being painted.

The radar device bounces a radio beam off an approaching

car and by timing its return calculates the auto's speed automatically and instantaneously.

If the operator finds a car speeding, he radios its license number to a trooper patrol in a patrol vehicle a mile away. The trooper then intercepts the car and gives the driver warning or places him under arrest.

In Operation July 4

An enforcement team consists of the operator and two troopers, one stationed a mile away in each direction.

"We hope it will be some help to us on the Fourth of July weekend," Major Weber said.

It was indicated that the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles probably will invoke automatic 15-day driver's license suspensions on those caught speeding over the Fourth.

Do you realize
these helpful things about Life Insurance?

1. That it is America's most popular form of thrift.

88 million men, women and children own life insurance.

2. That you don't have to die to take advantage of it.

56% of all payments go to living policyholders.

3. That it can help with any specific problems—such as education.

Thousands of American families have used life insurance to provide the means to educate their children.

4. That life insurance is a sure and safe way of providing protection, security and peace of mind.

How else could millions of families have built a financial backlog for themselves literally overnight?

5. That your life insurance dollars help your community in two ways.

They first come back as investment money to aid your community—and when your policy is finally paid off—they return as family money.

6. That the homes you and your neighbors live in may have been financed by life insurance funds.

At the end of last year more than 21 billion life insurance dollars were invested in home and other real estate mortgages.

7. That the life insurance business in America today is a highly competitive business.

In 1952 there were more than 700 life insurance companies, actively competing with one another with the result that costs are kept down and service improved.

The increasing ownership of life insurance means increased benefits to you as a policyholder, to your family, to your community and to the country.

A Sound Navy

While controversy still rages over the proposed slash in Air Force funds for the next year, the Navy has quietly accepted its own cut as inevitable, even though it means some "austerity." There was only one reservation in the Navy's acquiescence to the President's reduced defense budget. The Navy doesn't like the idea of having to prune its "new construction" funds.

The budget proposed by Mr. Truman would have given the Navy $1,300,000,000 for its 1953-54 operations. The elimination of $1,700,000,000 is satisfactory, and, although the vice chief of naval operations, Admiral Donald B. Duncan, pointed out that it was a calculated risk, he added that it was a risk the Navy agrees with.

The new budget means that the Navy will be buying only 1,300 new planes instead of 2,000 contemplated under the Truman budget. However, the emphasis has been switched so that more than a third of these will be jet types instead of the 15 per cent originally intended. At the same time there will be no decrease in the size of the naval air force, which now has slightly under 10,000 planes. The Navy, under its curtailed budget, will be able to maintain its present fleet of about 1,150 ships and continue work on the two supercarriers already authorized.

Carryover funds of some eight billions will also allow completion of many new types of combat ships. Naval manpower will decline from 800,000 to about 745,000. The Marine Corps will also trim its manpower but will be able to maintain three divisions and three air wings of 250 planes each.

Of the three services the Navy is probably in best shape as far as anticipating new weapons changes. Soon after the start of the Korean war the Navy took the lead in guided missile production and made plans for converting a pair of heavy cruisers to guided missile launchers. Korean operations have also permitted the Navy to gain invaluable experience in adapting carriers for jet planes and to learn new anti-mine techniques. Considerable progress has also been made in anti-submarine warfare.

On the face of it the nation appears to have the "sound and adequate Navy" claimed by Secretary Anderson.

Red Blackmailers

If you want to see your children again you'll turn spy for us. This, in essence, was the bald proposition put by a Romanian diplomat to a former countryman, now an American citizen.

As verified by the State Department and the FBI, who investigated the case, this vicious piece of blackmail was as casually placed before a husband and wife in their New York apartment late last month as a door to door salesman might have offered to trade a new vacuum cleaner for an old one.

Parents everywhere can understand the agony of the thought processes of the foreign born engineer and his wife as they weighed the bargain: Either collaborate—violate the oath of allegiance which they took to the United States—or lose your sons.

To most parents this would be the impossible decision. Georgescu and his wife decided in favor of their conscience, and they have laid "the fate of our children in the hands of world public opinion."

V. C. Georgescu, a petroleum engineer, and his wife had come to this country early in 1947 expecting to be here a matter of months. While here he was advised that his return was inadvisable. His properties had been confiscated and the two boys made wards of the state.

During the next four years continuous pressure was placed on the Pauker government by the U. S. State Department for the children's release. At one time, the Romanian government seemed ready to let them go. Passports, entry permits, and plane transportation to this country had been arranged. Then the Romanian government denied exit without explanation.

An enraged American public may get some satisfaction out of the knowledge that the diplomat, who is first secretary of the Romanian Legation in Washington, is being expelled from the country. But the means for pulling this vicious blackmail still exists in many cases that Americans know nothing about, nor will, except where the parents can equal the courage and loyalty to an ideal of these Romanian parents.

Knighthoods In Sport

One of the most popular gestures in Queen Elizabeth's combined coronation and birthday list of honors was recognition of the world of sport by the knighting of Gordon Richards, still active veteran jockey, and of Jack Hobbs, retired cricketer. These men's names are, and long have been, household words in Britain.

Racing, as perfected in England and transplanted here, is known as "the sport of Kings." For generations British monarchs have had their racing stables, and members of the nobility and even of royalty have participated in amateur cross-country events. Recognition, however, of a professional jockey, as of a professional cricketer, is without precedent. But next to cricket, racing is the national sport.

Gordon Richards, 33 years a jockey, who at 49 has a record of having ridden more than 4,700 winners, is Gordon to all devotees of the turf, even to the workman who slips out to wager as little as two shillings on the "3 o'clock." He is regarded as the greatest British jockey of this century, if not in history.

The statement, probably apocryphal, is attributed to the Duke of Wellington that "the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton." But 138 years after that event cricket is as strenuous and as popular with the British as then. In retirement Sir Jack Hobbs, who in first class matches exceeded every body as a batsman with a record of 61,237 runs, is no longer a threat.

June

June! The month of roses and brides, sweet girl graduates and daisies. The month of lush grasses, which inspired James Whitcomb Riley's phrase "knee-deep in June."

June offers the finest nature can produce. Penetrating the clear air and rich verdure on all sides are the ecstatic songs of birds. Golden sunshine, usually not too warm until late in the month, soft, delicate breezes, longest days of the year, fragrant with the breath of blossoms and the mingled perfumes from garden and meadow—what a month it is!

It would be impossible to enumerate all the gifts of June. One of the month's outstanding glories unquestionably is the tree. Surely trees are not seasonal plants, but in June seem to be at their best. Then they are fully leaved, and each leaf is vivid green, fresh and unsullied.

Hysterectomy: What, When, And Why

Women in their 40's find hysterectomy the popular surgical operation of their age group. First one friend and then another goes to the hospital to have the uterus removed and the reasons are so variable it takes several bridge parties and many telephone and over-the-back-fence conversations to cover the subject.

Hysterectomy is a major operation but it is so well established most women are back home in 10 to 14 days. Furthermore, the mortality rate is extremely low.

In one series of 2,000 cases in which the procedure was done for different conditions including hemorrhage and cancer, only four failed to survive. The technic varies and in some instances the entire uterus is removed. This operation seldom is recommended except as a life saving measure for women who want a family or before the change of life.

For women beyond this age it is suggested more often nowadays for disorders that formerly were treated conservatively. This is a new attitude but justifiable because, in the long run many minor operations fail to correct an abnormality and hysterectomy is necessary ultimately. In one group of cases reported recently, more than one-third of the hysterectomies were done on women who had gone through other types of pelvic surgery which failed to give relief.

There are many indications for removing the uterus but the most common is for the elimination of fibroids that are growing or producing excessive bleeding or pain.

Small fibroids that are not causing trouble need no attention but those reaching the size of a three month pregnancy are potentially serious and should be eradicated. Women often wonder why individual fibroids cannot be extracted without disturbing the uterus. Now and then this is possible and may be attempted when the patient is desirous of having children; occasionally it actually corrects long standing infertility. But when the women has borne her children it is easier and safer to take out the entire uterus with its tumors because this organ has completed its life work.

The second most common reason for removing the uterus is endometriosis. This pelvic disturbance results when a portion of the menstrual flow passes backward into the abdominal cavity via the fallopian tubes. The ensuing irritation creates so much distress that something must be done. In the operation not only are the irritated tissues eliminated but the source of trouble, the uterus and ovaries.

Hysterectomy also is performed when there is a mechanical defect such as prolapse (fallen uterus), ovarian cyst, or pelvic infection that cannot be controlled with medicine. It is done too when the uterus harbors cancer. Now and then hysterectomy is considered an emergency measure to control excessive bleeding; as a rule hormones and radium are tried unsuccessfully the organ must be removed to correct the difficulty and occasionally to save life. The operation usually is a last resort in younger women but in older groups it is preferred because of the possibility that the cause lies in a hidden cancer.

CHRONIC ACHING

L. F. writes: How long does a person ache after undulant fever? My wife still aches after a year and a half and $150 worth of medicine.

REPLY

In undulant fever, aching may continue for years, because there is no foolproof remedy for the chronic stage of the disease.

CROSSED LEGS

G. L. writes: Is sitting with the knees crossed bad for circulation?

REPLY

Not for the healthy person, provided the legs are uncrossed periodically. Individuals with poor circulation may be affected, but even here the legs may be crossed for short periods without harm.

SHAVING THE SCALP

T. M. writes: Will shaving all the hair off the head make it come back stronger?

REPLY

We cannot vouch for this popular idea because it lacks scientific proof. There is no reason why the new hair should be different from the old as the roots have not been changed. This misconception started originally when young boys found that the more they shaved the face, the heavier the beard became. They neglected to take into consideration the fact that they were getting older and nature, rather than the razor, was responsible.

CRITICAL REPORTS

"... This auditing firm submitted very critical reports of the way UNRRA was accounting for the shipment of supplies to these foreign countries, and there were, during this period, continuous re-organizations of the accounting setup in UNRRA, and of the procedures. I think by the time the program got under way the auditors were satisfied with the procedures, but I am not too clear on that."

"Mr. Morris. You wouldn't even tell us whether or not there was a Treasury transaction involved in that?"

"Mr. Glasser. I must refuse to answer that question, sir, on the ground that it may tend to incriminate me..."

Invasion Money

So we come to the Invasion Money question. It may be recalled that plates for the printing of American money were given to Russia to print invasion money.

It has not been possible to get the absolute figure as to what that enterprise cost the American people. When Harold Glasser was testifying before the Jenner Committee, he was asked about it:

"Mr. Morris. I will ask you a question now about your knowledge of the Treasury operation apart from any experience that you may have had in that operation. This is only from your formal knowledge of the Department. Are you aware of a Treasury arrangement whereby certain plates are printing plates, money printing plates, were sent to the Soviet Union?"

"Mr. Glasser. Excuse me, sir, may I consult?"

"Senator Jenner. You may consult."

(The witness conferred with his counsel)

"Mr. Morris. I am asking for your formal knowledge. I want the Treasury transaction without regard to your participation in it."

"Mr. Glasser. I must refuse to answer that question, sir, on the ground that it may tend to incriminate me..."

"Mr. Morris. You wouldn't even tell us whether or not there was a Treasury transaction involved in that?"

"Mr. Glasser. I must refuse to answer that question, sir."

"Mr. Morris. I take it you would refuse to answer questions directed to your knowledge and your participation in that transaction?"

"Mr. Glasser. That is correct, sir."

The only grounds for refusing to answer can be that it would be self-incriminating to Glasser if he told the truth, which can only mean that he was a party to the transaction and that a crime was committed, for which he could still be punished.

That is all that the Fifth Amendment can mean in a case like this.

"Mr. Glasser. Excuse me, sir, may I consult?"

"Senator Jenner. You may consult."

Budget Aide Hughes Switches Tax Allegiance Freely; CIO-AFL Unity Spells

Organized Opposition To Big Business Domination

WASHINGTON — Things really became confused at House hearings on extending the excess-profits tax when Assistant Budget Director Roland Hughes, who once lobbied against the tax, took the stand in its favor.

Hughes might have got away with this paradox but for sharp-witted Congressman Hale Boggs of Louisiana, who recalled that Hughes, formerly with the National City Bank of New York, had crusaded against the excess-profits tax several years ago.

Suddenly interrupting Hughes' testimony, Boggs inquired: "say, aren't you the same man who was around here in 1950 telling us that the excess-profits tax was a horrible thing and ought to be repealed?"

Hughes flushed, smiled weakly and replied:

"Yes, Congressman. I recall talking to you, among others, about it."

"When you talked to me, you strongly opposed the tax, but now tell us we ought to continue it," shot back Boggs. "What all prisoners back as an example to potential deserters inside the Russian Army. Most of the Chinese and Korean prisoners in UN camps are deserters. They went over to the UN side in droves. The Reds want them back to be punished, probably shot. The reason they want this is because Moscow's biggest worry is desertions from the Russian Army.

June offers the finest nature can produce. Penetrating the clear air and rich verdure on all sides are the ecstatic songs of birds. Golden sunshine, usually not too warm until late in the month, soft, delicate breezes, longest days of the year, fragrant with the breath of blossoms and the mingled perfumes from garden and meadow—what a month it is!

It would be impossible to enumerate all the gifts of June. One of the month's outstanding glories unquestionably is the tree. Surely, trees are at their best. Then they are fully leaved, and each leaf is vivid green, fresh and unsullied.

College Seeks Frostburg Lot

A condemnation suit asking Allegany County Circuit Court to determine the owner of a Frostburg lot needed in the expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College was filed Friday for the State Board of Education by Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

The lot in question, the suit contends, was purchased October 30, 1912 by Carmine Perrini and Maria Perrini, his wife. Before returning to Italy in 1914 they leased the lot to Fidili Colosimo for "not less than six months" and until Perrini should come back for it.

However, the Perrinis never came back. Carmine Perrini was reported to have been killed while serving with the Italian Army during World War I. His wife died in Italy later and they left no children. Colosimo, then a widower, died in 1949.

The condemnation suit names the four children of Colosimo and their wives or husbands as defendants. They claim title to the land by adverse possession. They and their father have been paying taxes on the lot since 1914.

An offer of $500 has been made by the State Board of Education for the lot. However, the board wants the court to determine whether it legally can pay the Colosimos for the lot, needed for the new auditorium and gymnasium planned for the college.

About one billion pounds of coffee are consumed annually in the United States.

Miss Dettra Gets Special Brethren Church Youth Caravan Summer Post

WESTERNPORT — Miss Rosaline Dettra is one of the 20 United States students selected to serve this summer in the Abundant Life Youth Caravan of the Church of the Brethren.

This summer Brethren young people will have an opportunity for a type of service that has not been open before.

Miss Dettra is a daughter of Rev. J. E. Dettra, of here, will leave July 14 for New Windsor for nine days intensive training before the six weeks assignment, for such skills as daily vocation Bible School administration, home visitation, worship leadership and all the services that a pastor performs.

At that time the group will be divided into two teams and assigned to new mission churches across the Brotherhood where they will work under the direction of the pastor. The purpose of this Caravan is to share Christ and build the church. It will be sponsored by the Youth Department and the Department of Evangelism.

As this is something new in the church, more or less an experiment, there were only 20 young persons chosen from different parts of the United States. They must be public speakers, talented in music, college students and most of all have Brethren background.

Miss Dettra's parents came from Brethren families. Her great-grandfather, Daniel Baker, on paternal side helped get Bridgewater College started. Her great-great-grandfather on her maternal side, William Faheystock, came from York, Pa., around 1800 and settled in Winchester, Va., to help organize Brethren churches in Northern Virginia.

Miss Dettra is a recent graduate of Potomac State School and will enter Juana College, Huntington, Pa., in the fall.

Milwaukee Regains First Place; Yankees Win 11th Straight

Braves Uncork Homer Attack To Whip Phils

Six Round-Trippers Nets Grimm's Outfit 6-0, 5-3 Victories

PHILADELPHIA, June 7 (AP) — The Milwaukee braves sprayed the outer reaches of Connie Mack Stadium with home runs today to win both ends of a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies and regain first place in the National League.

Round trippers by Sid Gordon, Andy Pafko, Eddie Mathews and Ebba St. Claire accounted for five runs as the Braves took the opener 6-0, George Crowe and Johnny Logan batted in three runs with homers in the 5-3 nightcap victory.

Rookie Johnny Antonelli limited the Phillies to five well scattered hits in winning the first game at the expense of Steve Ridzik, the starter and first of four Philadelphia pitchers.

Thornton Kipper, the rookie brought up by the Phils three days ago to help out during the absence of the injured Curt Simmons, was the victim in the second game with the win going to Reliever Bob Buhl.

The two wins nosed the Braves into first ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers by 6 percentage points in the National League pennant race.

Wilson yielded four hits, issued only one pass and struck out four. Jimmy Kessel, former Petersburg High hurler, who started on the peak for the Merchants, was charged with the loss. He was replaced by Dolly in the seventh.

Warden Hott with two doubles and a single and Paul Raines with a pair of two-baggers led Moorefield's 12-hit assault. One of the hits yielded by Wilson was a double by Dahmer.

Manager Leo Skidmore's Franklin team scored two runs in the top of the 12th to nose out the Romney Rockets by the score of 6-5.

Romney scored one run in the 12th and missed tying the score when Ed Strauss was thrown out at the plate when he tried to stretch his triple into a round-tripper.

Allen Kenay, the defeated hurler, struck out 13 Franklin batsmen. Lefty Bob Pope who went all the way for Franklin, fanned seven and blasted a three-run homer in the 7th stanza.

Radio And Television

Close Horse Race

Twice in my lifetime Queen Elizabeth has routed me, to say nothing of a lot of other Americans, out of bed at an unearthly hour. The first time, a frosty November dawn in 1947, was her wedding when her quavering "I will" rang around the world on radio at about 6 a.m. EDT. The second time, of course, was on Tuesday when her Majesty was crowned at 7:31 a.m. after hours of pageantry.

NBC had trumpeted proudly, though rather confusingly, in full page advertisements that it would present the actual sound from the Abbey and, a few minutes later, pictures of the event. Transatlantic television? Not quite, said the ad, but the nearest thing to it. What this meant was Mufax, RCA's latest wonder. Still pictures were taken off BBC television and transmitted here in a matter of about seven minutes and flashed on our screens. NBC even showed us the pictures while they were being transmitted.

While this was electronically impressive, pictorially it wasn't much. The pictures were not too good. Most noteworthy of them was a picture of the Queen just after she was crowned. She was a very solemn, almost sad, Queen and she looked as if the whole weight of empire were on her shoulders. This Mufax business was slightly confusing because sight was seven or eight minutes after sound. There'd be a picture of the Archbishop of Canterbury putting King Edward's crown on the Queen while the BBC announcer described the Queen receiving the homage of her peers—a different part of the ceremony in a different part of the Abbey.

Without Mufax to boast about or ballyhoo it up, CBS made do very handsomely with black and white wash drawings it got from the British Information Service. While synthetic, they were very good drawings and at least the CBS pictures and sound—they used the BBC an-

However, CBS in revenge, did have the first shots of the ceremony in the Abbey. Having lost the race to be first on, the CBS people threw out several miles of processional film and plunged right into the Abbey ceremony with some impressive shots of the Queen giving her oath. There was glory enough for everyone.

The second time, of course, was on Tuesday when her Majesty was crowned at 7:31 a.m. after hours of pageantry.

NBC had trumpeted proudly, though rather confusingly, in full page advertisements that it would present the actual sound from the Abbey and the plane to Venezuela, was allowed to transport its films across the Atlantic on it. At that moment, the plane was two hours out across the Atlantic, Garroway announced triumphantly, and the films should be in Boston and on the network at about 1 p.m., beating CBS all hollow.

A half an hour later, NBC had to take it all back. The Venezuelan jet had a faulty fuel line and had to return to Britain. That meant the horse race between the CBS Mustang and the NBC Mustang from Goose Bay Labrador to Boston with the films was still on. Well, sir, CBS won that race handily. Its Mustang blew into Logan airport way ahead of NBC's plane.

NBC had Ben Grauer strolling nervously around Logan airport chewing his nails and announcing changes in NBC's plans every five minutes. First, the plane was expected any time. Then — because obviously it was quite a long way in the rear — all mention of the plane was dropped and Mr. Grauer spoke brightly of picking up "in a few minutes" the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation telecast from Montreal. Abruptly, then he — and the rest of us — switched to Ottawa where the Canadians were holding their own little coronation ceremony.

Meanwhile, CBS cameras were scanning the skies in Boston and announcing their plane was in sight — which it was. For awhile, it looked as if CBS would get its plane on the ground before Montreal could thread the films into the projectors. But no. The CBS telecast got on NBC about 4:15, a good five minutes ahead of CBS. Co-winner in the Coronation Derby was little ABC — and therein lies a pretty funny story. ABC right from the outset refused to get into this mad race. It had planned to pick up the CBS telecast from the beginning. It didn't rent a single airplane-jet or otherwise. It didn't get any ulcers. And, along with NBC, it was first on the air with a picture.

However, CBS in revenge, did have the first shots of the ceremony in the Abbey. Having lost the race to be first on, the CBS people threw out several miles of processional film and plunged right into the Abbey ceremony with some impressive shots of the Queen giving her oath. There was glory enough for everyone.

Five Are Hospitalized In City After Headon Crash Near Ridgeley

Miss Helen Gilmore, Richard Leo, Mrs. Phyllis Brotemarkle 'Serious'

BULLETIN

The condition of Richard Leo, 21-year-old driver of one of the cars involved in the crash near Ridgeley yesterday, was termed "critical" by Sacred Heart Hospital late last night. Leo had not regained consciousness by 11 p. m. Miss Helen Carol Gilmore and Mrs. Phyllis Brotemarkle had regained consciousness, but were still in "serious" condition.

Eight persons were injured, at least three seriously, in a headon collision just south of Ridgeley on West Virginia Route 28 yesterday afternoon.

Hospitalized were:

Miss Helen Carol Gilmore, 21, of 429 Beall Street, with possible fractures of the skull, leg and arm, and severe head lacerations.

Richard Leo, 21, of 733 Hill Top Drive, with a possible skull fracture and other injuries.

Mrs. Phyllis Riggeman Brotemarkle, 23, of 323 Baltimore Avenue, with a possible skull fracture and lacerations.

Her husband, William R. Brotemarkle, 25, with lacerations of the right leg.

Miss Wanda Thorne, 20, of Romney, W. Va., with bruises of the face and head.

Miss Gilmore, Leo and Mrs. Brotemarkle were in "fairly serious" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital. Miss Thorne was in "fair" condition at the same hospital and Brotemarkle was in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital.

Treated at Memorial Hospital were:

Philip S. Hockman Jr., 23, of Romney, with facial injuries.

His wife, Mrs. Norma Hockman, 18, with abrasions of the head and right leg.

Mrs. Myrtle Thorne, 40, of Romney, mother of Miss Thorne and Mrs. Hockman, for cuts and lacerations of the face and forehead.

Hockman told West Virginia State Police Cpl. F. H. Tribbett he was heading north toward Cumberland at 2 p. m. when two cars in front of him stopped suddenly. Swerving to avoid them, he ran headon into Richard Leo's car, which was travelling in the opposite direction.

The accident occurred about 100 yards south of the Perabee Lounge, just outside Ridgeley.

Tree Experts Making Fight On Oak Wilt

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 7 (UPI)—Maryland tree experts who last summer found a number of areas affected by oak wilt believe they have made a good start in controlling the disease.

An aerial survey made last year disclosed about 25 areas which appeared to be infected. Only 16 of these yielded the oak wilt fungus during laboratory examination. The most serious infection was found on the eastern slope of Dan's Mountain, between Cumberland and Keyser, W. Va. The other known areas of infections were all in the section west of Hagerstown.

As a result of the survey, wilted trees were cut, logs sprayed and brush destroyed. The live stump and other trees within 66 feet of infected trees were poisoned.

Experts say this procedure has been found effective in other states but the success of the Maryland work will not be known until later this summer when another aerial survey is conducted.

Oak wilt control work has been carried on as a cooperative effort of the Department of State Forests and Parks, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Maryland.

Tree experts ask that wilting oak trees with off-color, sparse foliage be reported to district foresters.

Brothers Hurt As Car Upsets

Two brothers, whose car went out of control and rolled over in New Creek Drive early Saturday, were driving last night at Potosi, Marion Valley Hospital in Keyser, W. Va.

Paul R. Williams, 28, of 9625 Dameron Drive, Silver Spring, was listed as owner of the 1952 sedan which upset on a curve and turned over several times.

Williams, a 1950 graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College and now an elementary school teacher in Silver Spring, is in "good" condition with injuries of the chest and left shoulder.

His brother, Ellsworth F. Williams, 36, of Arlington, had a possible concussion and injuries of the chest and leg.

Police said Paul Williams was thrown into New Creek and his brother was thrown to the highway when the car flipped over. Rudolph Kolpf, District Heights (Md.), who had stopped at the side of the road to sleep, was awakened by the crash and pulled Paul Williams from the creek. Kolpf took the pair to the hospital.

Both men were on their way to visit their parents in Barton.

Enters Hospital

Miss Lorena Burke, 234 Columbia Street, is a surgical patient at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Deaths

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Frostburg, a daughter Saturday.

CPL. LLOYD KEMP

Area Soldier Is Wounded In Korea

Telephones Parents That He Is Okay

Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Kemp, Elmerie Road, talked with their son, Cpl. Lloyd Kemp, by long distance and radio-phone from Japan a couple of nights ago. The young man had put the call in on his 23rd birthday, May 30, but it was delayed several days.

He reported that he is in a hospital near Tokyo for an operation on his face and some new teeth. He had been wounded about the face and hands sometime between March 15 and April 1 and was hospitalized for a time and later returned to duty. About May 27, he was hurt again.

His family here said he has been assigned in Korea as an ammunition truck driver and has been hauling ammunition to "Old Baldy" and other hot spots, according to his letters.

Cpl. Kemp has been in the Army since October 1951. He attended school at Corriganville and later worked as a trackman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company before entering service.

He indicated when he called, his parents said, that he will be hospitalized until about July 1.

Tree Experts Making Fight On Oak Wilt

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 7.—Maryland tree experts who last summer found a number of areas affected by oak wilt believe they have made a good start in controlling the disease.

An aerial survey made last year disclosed about 25 areas which appeared to be infected. Only 16 of these yielded the oak wilt fungus during laboratory examination. The most serious infection was found on the eastern slope of Dan's Mountain, between Cumberland and Keyser, W. Va. The other known areas of infections were all in the section west of Hagerstown.

As a result of the survey, wilted trees were cut, logs sprayed and brush destroyed. The live stump and other trees within 66 feet of infected trees were poisoned.

Experts say this procedure has been found effective in other states but the success of the Maryland work will not be known until later this summer when another aerial survey is conducted.

Oak wilt control work has been carried on as a cooperative effort of the Department of State Forests and Parks, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Maryland.

Five Are Hospitalized In City After Headon Crash Near Ridgeley

Miss Helen Gilmore, Richard Leo, Mrs. Phyllis Brotemarkle 'Serious'

BULLETIN

The condition of Richard Leo, 21-year-old driver of one of the cars involved in the crash near Ridgeley yesterday, was termed "critical" by Sacred Heart Hospital late last night. Leo had not regained consciousness by 11 p. m. Miss Helen Carol Gilmore and Mrs. Phyllis Brotemarkle had regained consciousness, but were still in "serious" condition.

Eight persons were injured, at least three seriously, in a headon collision just south of Ridgeley on West Virginia Route 28 yesterday afternoon.

Hospitalized were:

Miss Helen Carol Gilmore, 21, of 429 Beall Street, with possible fractures of the skull, leg and arm, and severe head lacerations.

Richard Leo, 21, of 733 Hill Top Drive, with a possible skull fracture and other injuries.

Mrs. Phyllis Riggelman Brotemarkle, 23, of 323 Baltimore Avenue, with a possible skull fracture and lacerations.

Her husband, William R. Brotemarkle, 25, with lacerations of the right leg.

Miss Wanda Thorne, 20, of Romney, W. Va., with bruises of the face and head.

Miss Gilmore, Leo and Mrs. Brotemarkle were in "fairly serious" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital. Miss Thorne was in "fair" condition at the same hospital and Brotemarkle was in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital.

Treated at Memorial Hospital were:

Philip S. Hockman Jr., 23, of Romney, with facial injuries.

His wife, Mrs. Norma Hockman, 18, with abrasions of the head and right leg.

Mrs. Myrtle Thorne, 40, of Romney, mother of Miss Thorne and Mrs. Hockman, for cuts and lacerations of the face and forehead.

Hockman told West Virginia State Police Cpl. F. H. Tribbett he was heading north toward Cumberland at 2 p. m. when two cars in front of him stopped suddenly. Swerving to avoid them, he ran headon into Richard Leo's car, which was travelling in the opposite direction.

The accident occurred about 100 yards south of the Perrabee Lounge, just outside Ridgeley.

In the West Virginia car were Hockman, his wife, Mrs. Thorne, and her other daughter, Wanda Thorne. They were on their way to visit Mrs. Thorne's son, William, 7, a patient at Memorial Hospital.

Miss Gilmore, who is a City Recreation Department secretary, and the Brotemarkles, were riding in Leo's car.

M. G. Logsdon, 26, of Patterson Creek, W. Va., who said he was driving the car ahead of the Hockman vehicle, corroborated the Romney man's account of the crash.

Logsdon said the car in front of him, bearing Maryland license tags, stopped suddenly without signalling, pulled partly off the highway, then started again.

Logsdon was forced to jam his brakes on, and nearly ran into the rear of the car ahead. He said he was doing about 30 miles an hour at the time.

Logsdon was forced to jam his brakes on, and nearly ran into the rear of the car ahead. He said he was doing about 30 miles an hour at the time.

As he slowed down, Logsdon said, he heard a squealing of tires behind him, looked around and saw the Hockman vehicle smash into the front of the Leo car.

Logsdon sped into Ridgeley to notify Fire Chief Leo Rice, who sent aid to the scene. Police Chief H. L. Henry, first to arrive, took two of the victims to the hospital, then hurried back to direct heavy Sunday traffic around the scene of the crash.

Ambulances from the Stein, George, Scarpetti and Hafer funeral homes in Cumberland and brought the rest of the injured to local hospitals.

Traffic piled up behind the wrecked machines for about a mile in each direction. Cumberland Police Lt. Raymond R. Johnson said traffic was so heavy he was unable to get his cruiser car near the scene to offer assistance until all the injured had been cared for.

Anyone that might have taken thought would have known that these scapegoats that Aaron had turned too would prove to be foolish methods of putting away sin against the Almighty God, and he would have endeavored a way to clean his own skirts and also the children's of whom he was responsible.

Aaron should have recognized that his society and nature were the elements that were presenting these responsibilities to him, and that they were burdens placed upon his shoulders to be carried by him, to accomplish the purpose of God. Now had Aaron taken the responsibility upon himself there would have been much accomplished towards working the plan of God, whereas, many many souls died at the point of the sword because of the shifting of responsibilities.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. ALLEN D. PUGH

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday by Rev. Allen D. Pugh, pastor at the Church of the Brethren, Wiley Ford, W. Va. The sermon digests are being prepared through the co-operation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Who Is Responsible

Text: "I cast it in, and there came out this calf" Ex. 32:24.

There was never a speech more true to one disposition of human nature than this of Aaron, when questioned about the golden calf he began shifting the responsibility. He was asked to give account of this tragedy, as he being in the position of leader of the children, and he began putting blame on the society in which he found himself. Aaron used an extremely modern escape, just comparable to our methods of shifting responsibilities of certain elements of life that offer no material or physical gain. He felt that the prevailing pressure of his society would give him greater gain, so he created to their desires the golden image, and thus yielded to the pressure of society.

Aaron also could see the value of having more than one escape route, so he put forth blame to nature for this ordeal. Make society responsible in as much as it is possible, and then shift the remaining responsibility to the good old nature.

"I cast it in and there came out this calf."

Not Aaron's fault, but nature's fault. Of course, Aaron does not make mention of the moulds that he made, that would not have aided the decrease in his responsibility, but rather to make it more difficult for him to obliterate this responsibility. So therefore, he just made way for nature to reap of this harvest which rightfully and certainly did belong to him.

In the presentation of the case of Aaron, one is caused to think of the childlessness of such a method of shifting responsibilities.

Anyone that might have taken thought would have known that these scapegoats that Aaron had turned too would prove to be foolish methods of putting away sin against the Almighty God, and he would have endeavored a way to clean his own skirts and also the children's of whom he was responsible.

Aaron should have recognized that his society and nature were the elements that were presenting these responsibilities to him, and that they were burdens placed upon his shoulders to be carried by him, to accomplish the purpose of God. Now had Aaron taken the responsibility upon himself there would have been much accomplished towards working the plan of God, whereas, many many souls died at the point of the sword because of the shifting of responsibilities.

Perhaps we have modern displays that could be equally terminated with this of Aaron. Where people have in a method of use-
